

REACH
WRESTLING LTD

Safeguarding Policy

REACH Wrestling Ltd believes that everyone we encounter, regardless of age, gender identity, disability, sexual orientation, or ethnic origin has the right to be protected from all forms of harm.

We at REACH Wrestling take the safety of our clients and staff seriously. Any form of ill treatment to staff and clients will not be tolerated.

Our safeguarding process includes but is not limited to:

Any issues or concerns relating to one's wellbeing or the wellbeing of others must be brought to the attention of REACH management at the earliest opportunity. In the case of an incident a formal and confidential one to one discussion (where applicable or possible) will be available with the company director. In the event the director is unavailable, an agreed member of staff or person working on behalf of REACH wrestling Ltd will conduct the meeting.

Please note, in the event the matter brought to the organisation is deemed as legal, we may involve law enforcement.

REACH wrestling will take every measure possible to protect its staff and clients, and we want all our members to feel they are within a safe environment at all times.

Jason Clarke
Matthew Bradbury-Malloy
Company Director's